This certificate records the provider's completion field for the participant named above. It is issued for participant records and may be supplied with a screening application. It does not certify that an employer or statutory authority must accept the participant as suitable for a particular role. Assessment of risk requires the context and evidence relevant to that purpose.

Course areas shown on certificate reverse transcription: responsibility for choices; effects of intimidation; respectful communication; recognising escalation; planning time out without punishment of another person; listening without interruption; understanding children's experience of adult conflict; help-seeking and relapse planning. These headings identify the course content and do not constitute a score for each area.

Issue control:

Attendance records held by provider | yes
Facilitator report issued separately | yes
Clinical diagnosis provided | no
Court sentence completion certified | no
Employer clearance provided | no
Certificate requested by participant | yes

Participants are encouraged to retain their individual plans and contact the service if they need further support. The group format does not observe a participant continuously at home. A certificate is an administrative completion document and should be read with the facilitator's report rather than substituted for it. No partner statement, child interview or independent home observation is attached to this certificate.
