I supervised Callum during the 2024 and 2025 seasons. He was a volunteer assistant and did not run sessions independently. I saw him at Tuesday and Thursday training and at a number of Saturday fixtures. The club register recorded a historical clearance notice covering those seasons. That earlier notice expired in February 2026 and is not being relied upon for the proposed Association employment.

The club incident register contains no entry concerning misconduct by Callum in either the 2024 or 2025 season. I have reviewed the register extracts supplied with this application. I have no separate complaint about him to add. The registers include ordinary injuries, weather interruptions and collection issues. They should not be mistaken for a record that nothing inconvenient happened at the club. They do support my observation that no conduct incident concerning Callum was reported to me.

His duties were to set equipment, assist drills, repeat instructions and stay with the group under my direction. Early in the first season I told him to use a normal voice closer to the children rather than a warehouse call from the other side of the drill. He responded to that coaching advice. I did not observe an angry confrontation with a child or treat the advice as a disciplinary warning.

Some children become upset when they lose a game or misunderstand an instruction. I saw Callum slow a drill down and let another child demonstrate it. I also saw him refer team-selection questions to me. He did not promise a child a position or use a private phone chat to deal with one. These are direct observations in a structured setting.

He told me about the old conviction and the protective order when asking for this letter. I do not have personal knowledge of either event. I can describe the seasons I supervised and the boundaries he followed there.

The strongest observation I can offer is that the ordinary frustrations of junior sport did not become personal quarrels when Callum assisted me. Balls disappeared over a fence, parents arrived late and children ignored explanations. He kept helping. He was not always smooth with an explanation, but he accepted a correction and tried it again.

I would support him in an assistant position with a named head coach. I cannot give a view about an unrestricted role away from the supervision I observed. Nor can I say that two seasons prove how he would behave in a relationship or during an unsupervised argument. I understand why an assessor needs to read the historical papers rather than only the references.

Our incident log was maintained after each session by the responsible volunteer. It is a record of reported events, not a continuous recording of every conversation. The committee reviewed the season totals and no complaint about Callum was brought to that review. Parents used the head-coach or secretary contact for concerns. The absence of a reported concern has value, with those limits.

We enforced the same pickup rules for all helpers. A child waiting for collection stayed with the head coach and another authorised adult; helpers did not improvise lifts. Callum followed that rule during sessions I supervised. I cannot certify a separate Association plan, but I have read that it uses similar boundaries while his current application is pending.

I have not asked Jessica Tran or her daughter to supply a reference. I do not know where the child was on the night in 2021. I did not interpret the program certificate's date for this letter. Those are subjects outside my observation. Please contact the relevant source holder for them, rather than treating my support as an answer.

I have written this in my own words. The club's register is enclosed through the secretary's records response; it is separate from this personal coaching reference. I remain willing to explain which duties and sessions I observed within the fictional assessment exercise.
